SpacePole A-Frame - enabling the latest trends in tablet-based retail and hospitality

A recent survey from Edge by Ascential notes that those organisations that utilise technology that resonates with their staff and customers provides the customer journey that today's 24/7 consumer demands. The current drive for convergence between online and in-store is providing the ideal platform for tablets to deliver that in-store experience. The stylishly refreshed SpacePole A-Frame is ideally placed to enable tablet-based customer-facing applications across the store.

Setting up the A-Frame tablet enclosure is simplicity itself, simply open the unit and place the tablet inside. Locking the A-Frame with either a push-lock or a security screw, this device combines good looks with discreet yet effective physical security.

The integrated security allows even more flexibility for mounting within your enterprise. With your tablet secure, SpacePole A-Frame opens up unattended applications and information points along with customer sign in applications. And, site it where you wish. Floor, desk and wall mounted options are all available for this most sophisticated of solutions. To reflect the focus on the store environment, and company brand, A-Frame is now offered in a range of colours to suit your style.

Recognising the pace of change and the necessity to protect your investment, the latest version of SpacePole A-Frame accommodates a wide range of popular tablets, including the latest tablets from Apple and Samsung.

SpacePole A-Frame - welcome to a new world of tablet utilisation
